

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A semiconductor device includes a substrate and an insulating layer formed on the substrate. A conductive fin may be formed on the insulating layer. Fully silicided source and drain regions may be formed adjacent to the fin. A metal gate may be formed over a portion of the fin via a damascene process.